Having been an avid complainer about Microsoft in the not so distant past, I have begun to truly value the amazing innovation that Microsoft has been bringing to the world for more than 25 years. The currently proposed Final Judgment seems to strike a fair and reasonable balance between allowing Microsoft to continue to drive innovation, and giving its competitors a fair shake at similar innovation on existing and future Microsoft platforms. Under the proposed Final Judgment, consumers will continue to benefit from the great advances by all of the brilliant minds in the software industry.

I strongly support the adoption of the proposed Final Judgment in its current form.
